NAPLES, July 16.

A HORRID murder has lately been committed at Nola. A ſurgeon, who was frequently at the houſe of an officer there, was looked upon by the wife with a too favourable eye, which the officer obſerving, deſired the ſurgeon no more to enter his doors. The latter conformed, ſeemingly without the leaſt diſſatisfaction; but afterwards aſſociating with a bravo, they waylaid the officer in the ſtreet one evening, and, after giving him many wounds with a dagger, left him for dead. The officer was ſoon found, and being carried home, the wife immediately diſpatched a meſſenger for the ſurgeon, who had been the aſſaſſin, not thinking him capable of ſuch an act. On the arrival of the ſurgeon, finding the officer living, he declared his wounds were not mortal, but that it would be neceſſary to dilate that given on his breaſt, as that ſeemed the moſt dangerous: He then took one of his inſtruments, and thruſt it into the officer's heart, and he preſently died. The bravo, his accomplice, has confeſſed the whole, and they are now both in priſon.

A woman in this capital brought lately to a curate of one of the pariſhes a baſket, which ſhe delivered to one of the domeſtics, together with a letter, to be given to the curate, and ſaid ſhe would call ſoon for an anſwer. On the curate's arrival, the baſket (which was ſuppoſed to contain a preſent) was opened, when there appeared nothing in it but a dried ſkull, and ſome ſtones, the latter ſuppoſed to be put in to make it appear weighty. The curate then opened the letter, and read as follows: "Mr. curate, renounce your avarice, no longer fleece the poor, and take great heed how you behave yourſelf for the future; otherwiſe, the firſt opportunity, you ſhall make a ſimilar figure with this ſkull. Think of this, and tremble!"

ANECDOTE of Dr. SQUIRE, late Biſhop of ST. DAVID's.

SOME time about the year 1761, a living in Caermarthenſhire, in the gift of the Biſhop, being vacant, his Lordſhip received a letter from the Earl of B——, recommending one Mr. L. in the ſtrongeſt terms to his Lordſhip, and intimating, that if his Lordſhip had not fixed on a perſon to ſupply the living of ——, he ſhould be much obliged to him, if he would preſent his friend Mr. L. to it, and that his Lordſhip might command his (the Earl's) intereſt for himſelf or friends at any time, &c. &c.

Whether or not the Biſhop was determined to give the living to the object of this application, I know not; but it happened before he returned an anſwer to the Earl, that a poor curate, miſerably dreſſed, came to the Biſhop's houſe, he being then at Aberguilly, and ſent in a letter to his Lordſhip.

This letter was written by himſelf to the Biſhop, in which he ſet forth, that he had a wife and five children; that his income was but ——; and that therefore they wanted the common neceſſaries of life; that he had no friend to recommend him, but hearing of the goodneſs of his Lordſhip's heart, and his liberal way of thinking and acting, he was come to petition his Lordſhip for the living of ——; he hoped, at leaſt, that his Lordſhip would pardon his preſumption, for tho' the method of application was uncommon, yet ſo was his Lordſhip's generoſity; and, notwithſtanding he had no particular claim to his favour by intereſt or dependence, he had, however, a general claim to it, as being an honeſt man, which, to his Lordſhip, was no ſmall recommendation.

The Biſhop ordered him in, gave him a dinner, for he had walked upwards of twenty Welch miles, required a teſtimonium of his good behaviour, which he produced, found him well acquainted both with polite literature and the mathematics, and, in ſhort, not only preſented him to the living, but gave him money to diſcharge the expences of inſtitution.

May the memory of this action remain as long as any language can convey ideas to poſterity! and, as the grateful remembrance of Dr. Squire's goodneſs is indelibly fixed in the hearts of the whole family, who are thus made happy, ſo let the record of this deed ſtand in the page of hiſtory, and may time itſelf never be able to efface it!

CLERICI FILIUS.

LONDON, Auguſt 4.

NOTHING can produce more refined ſenſations to a good and philoſophic mind than a ſerious contemplation of the Heavenly bodies: It affords us a moſt auguſt idea of the ALMIGHTY ARCHITECT, whoſe benign and plaſtic hand thus wonderfully forms, guides, and ſuſtains, the whole univerſe. A ſtriking part of this great workmanſhip is now exhibited to our view, every clear evening, in that largeſt and moſt beautiful planet Jupiter, which has lately made its appearance in our hemiſphere. It will be ſeen to riſe for ſeveral evenings (almoſt in the eaſt) at nine o'clock, and ſets about ſix in the morning. It may eaſily be diſtinguiſhed, as it is conſiderably brighter, and much larger, than any other planet or ſtar. It is a moſt immenſe diſtance from the ſun; but Providence, to counterbalance this, has furniſhed him with four ſatellites, or moons, which conſtantly attend this planet, as the moon does our earth. Theſe moons are not to be diſcovered by the naked eye, but by the help of a good reflecting teleſcope they are all very conſpicuous, as are alſo the belts which ſurround Jupiter. He will continue ſome time with us, and afford much entertainment for the philoſophic and curious, as his moons never vary far from him, yet are ſeen every night in different poſitions. At preſent two of them, on the ſouth ſide of him, are ſo very near as to appear almoſt to touch each other.

Auguſt 15. Yeſterday Sir Robert Keith was at court for the firſt time ſince his arrival from Scotland. He is expected to ſet out ſhortly for his intended embaſſy to the Imperial court.

On Tueſday morning the weaver noted for throwing a ſmall ſtick over a church ſteeple undertook to fling a ſtone three times over St. Luke's church ſteeple, and to run round the church each time, and catch it in his hat. He performed it twice, but in going round the third time he ſlipped down, and broke his leg.

Tueſday morning a man attempting to rob Mr. Furney's garden, Chriſt church, Surry, was ſhot by a ſpring gun. He was carried to St. Thomas's hoſpital, where he ſoon after expired.

Yeſterday morning a Gentleman took a boat at Horſleydown ſtairs, in order to go to Greenwich. The waterman had not rowed him above half a mile before he took from his fob a gold watch, and, after earneſtly looking at it, jumped overboard, and was drowned.

Monday laſt went to be married, at Shoreditch church, Mrs. Hudſon, ſheep's head retailer, aged 89, to Mr. Walker, a cutler, aged 22. The people that attended this intended marriage were ſo numerous, and behaved in ſo turbulent a manner, by breaking the pews, &c. that the Clergyman poſtponed the moſt material part of the ceremony, and went out of church as greatly chagrined as the loving couple were diſappointed; but on Tueſday, we are informed, the ceremony was performed without the leaſt diſturbance, and to the ſatisfaction of all parties.

We learn from Vienna that General Eſterhaſi has marched into Poland with an army of 24,000 men, to join General Haddick.

Extract of a letter from Warſaw, July 28.

The Auſtrian General Monſieur Richecour ſtill reſides here, and is very buſy. He has every day a conference with the Ruſſian ambaſſador, after which he always goes to court, where he remains two or three hours; by which circumſtances every man can ſee that there muſt be matters of very great importance upon the carpet between thoſe two courts.

"The following event happened here on Tueſday the 21ſt of July: Since the 24th of laſt month the fineſt hotels of the confederates, in this metropolitan city, have been preparing for the reception of the Ruſſian Generals and Noblemen, who are actually here. The Ruſſian General Bibikow took poſſeſſion of the hotel of the confederate Count Radziwitchy, as did alſo the Ruſſian General Rzewſkoy that of Count Potoki, by which uſurpations a jealouſy aroſe in the hearts of the friends of liberty, which interrupted the working people, and at laſt came to a battle between the parties; but this battle was ſoon interrupted by the Ruſſian troops, who treated the friends of liberty (here called the damn'd confederates) in a manner not to be permitted in a civilized ſtate. But there happened to be a convent of the pious fathers juſt oppoſite the hotel of Count Potoki, in which conſtantly are between four and five hundred young ſtudents. Theſe young Gentlemen ſeeing the ill uſage with which the friends of liberty were treated, took up arms againſt the Ruſſian troops; but no ſooner was it known to the commander of this little Ruſſian corps than he immediately ordered his whole corps to fire among the ſtudents, ſome of which were killed, others wounded, and the reſt took to flight. It was expected that the Ruſſian officer would have been called to an account for his brutal behaviour; but we found the contrary, for the prior of the convent was called to an account for the revolt and riot of the ſtudents. As yet we know no more of this affair than that the poor pious fathers will be obliged to pay a certain ſum of money, as a fine to the Crown for the ſubjects which were killed in this engagement.

Orders are iſſuing out for all the colony agents to attend the new ſecretary for American affairs the next board day, which is fixed for Tueſday the 18th inſtant.

Advices are received that at the Portugueſe ſettlement of Fernanda de Norana, in the Brazils, where there is a garriſon of 60 men, the ſoldiers have mutinied and murdered the Governor and his family, the chief Captain and his junior, and have gone off, the principals of them, in a large barge, as pirates, on a cruiſe in the South Seas,

A Gentleman from Paris aſſures us that a celebrated Iriſh Baronet (Sir H—— E——) who married the no leſs celebrated Miſs R——, and figured away in England, Ireland, and France, till he had figured away a fortune of 3000l. a year, is now reduced to the abject ſituation of a waiter at a firſt rate hotel at Paris.

Mr. Ernſt, the preſent charge des affaires at the Court of Copenhagen (a young Gentleman now but 20 years of age) is, at the eſpecial nomination of his Majeſty, appointed the Secretaire de embaſſy of Sir Robert Murray Keith at the Court of Berlin.

The trite adage of "All covet all loſe" was never more truly exemplified than in the fate of Mr. Fordyce. At the time that he had abſolutely realized conſiderably upwards of 100,000l. and was adviſed by his intimates to decline all farther ſpeculation in the ſtocks, he was ſo extraordinarily elevated by his ſucceſs; and ſo very ambitious of ſuperlative grandeur, that he declared to ſeveral of his friends he had fortune chained to his ſide, and would never decline his purſuits till he had attained his ultimate object, that of being the richeſt ſubject in the world.

There is to be a review on Blackheath the 27th of next month of two battalions of artillery, which will be not only the laſt but the greateſt review this ſeaſon. The preparations are now going forward: A fort and citadel, raiſed of earth, wood, &c. are to be erected, and are to be beſieged and attacked in form, to give the King an idea of the manner, from a repreſentation of real action.

The following were the principal facts that came out in evidence on the trial of a keeper of a private mad houſe, in the court of King's Bench: The proſecutrix in this cauſe had, it ſeems, for many years, lived upon very indifferent terms with her huſband; in June 1770, ſhe ſwore the peace againſt him, quitted his houſe, went to that of a friend, and took her child with her; ſhe had not, however, been many days abſent, before her huſband (from whom it does not appear ſhe concealed the place of her reſidence) fetched the child away. About three weeks after a neighbour informed her that her huſband was on the point of breaking up houſe. Alarmed on account of her child, as well as for her own future ſupport, ſhe prevailed upon an attorney to accompany her to her late dwellinghouſe, in order to enter into ſome agreement with her huſband relative to both; but as ſoon as he got her in his power, he diſmiſſed the attorney, and detaining her till the next day, conveyed her (with the aſſiſtance of ſome friends and the keeper's ſervants) to a private mad houſe, on pretence of taking her to ſee the child; here ſhe remained a year and nine months, till a woman, applied to a friend of the plaintiff, who, repreſenting the affair to Sir John Fielding, that Gentleman wrote a letter to a juſtice in the neighbourhood of the mad houſe, and the plaintiff, through the interpoſition of this Magiſtrate, immediately obtained her liberty, without the leaſt difficulty. Theſe were the chief outlines relative to her confinement and releaſe. As to her real ſanity or inſanity, the reaſons for one or the other were ſupported on the following grounds: For the former it was alledged, by many witneſſes, (one in particular who had known her for eight years preceding her marriage, and to the very day of her confinement) that ſhe was an induſtrious, ſober, parſimonious woman; that they had frequently, during the period here adverted to, ſeen her, and had numberleſs opportunities of being perfectly acquainted with her diſpoſition and ſtate of mind; that ſhe appeared to them at all times, and on all occaſions, fully in her ſenſes, nor ever betrayed one ſingle ſymptom more, than ſhe did at preſent, of any ſtate of lunacy, idiotcy, or want of ſound underſtanding. The juſtice and the woman who made the diſcovery, depoſed to the ſame effect, as far as fell within their knowledge. On the other hand, above a dozen witneſſes politively ſwore that they always looked upon her as a mad woman; ſome of them, when interrogated by the oppoſite council, what they meant by this general deſcription, anſwered, ſhe was mad or worſe, or was ſuch a perſon as no honeſt man would live with, while others inſiſted poſitively on her inſanity, and aſſigned ſome one or all of theſe reaſons; that ſhe was indiſcriminately jealous of every woman with whom her huſband had any intercourſe in the way of buſineſs, &c. that ſhe refuſed to eat with her huſband, though he kept an extreme good table for one in his circumſtances, yet pretended to be ſtarved; that her fits of jealouſy, rage, and madneſs, were continued without interval; that whatever woman came in her way was ſure to ſuffer from her the moſt reproachful language, if not to be beaten or aſſaulted by her; that ſhe frequently inſiſted that her huſband was married to two or three other mens wives; that ſhe charged him publicly with the commiſſion of the moſt atrocious crimes, improbable in their nature, and of notorious falſity; that ſhe went in all her neighbourhood under the appellation of the mad woman; and, that ſhe frequently came home ſurrounded by crowds of boys, whom her unaccountable behaviour had collected as ſhe paſſed along the ſtreets.

After the evidence was finally cloſed, the jury found the huſband and the keeper of the madhouſe guilty, and the court is to paſs judgment on them the beginning of next term.

Leeds, Auguſt 11. On Saturday laſt, as Mr. William Elſeworth, a farmer, of Sicklinghall, near Wetherby, was driving his cows to paſture, a young bull, only two years old, which was amongſt them, gored him in ſo terrible a manner that he expired almoſt inſtantly. The beaſt had run one of his horns in at Mr. Elſeworth's breaſt, and out at his ſhoulder, and tore him in many other parts of his body.

PHILADELPHIA, October 5.

A correſpondent has ſent us the following paragraph: I had the curioſity, laſt week, to be preſent at Dr. Bond's cutting for the ſtone, and was agreeably diſappointed; for, inſtead of ſeeing an operation, ſaid to be perplexed with difficulty and uncertainty, and attended with violence and cruelty, it was performed with ſuch eaſe, regularity and ſucceſs, it ſcarcely gave a ſhock to the moſt ſympathiſing byſtander, the whole being compleated, and a ſtone of two inches in length, and one in diamter, extracted in leſs than two minutes, to the inexpreſſible relief of an amiable youth, whoſe proſpect in life was horrid from having ſuffered the moſt excruciating torture, from his birth to this lucky moment. If ſurgery is productive of ſuch bleſſed effects, may we not, with Cicero, juſtly rank it amongſt the firſt of the arts, and eſteem it worthy of the higheſt culture and encouragement.

NEWBERN, September 11.

In our laſt we mentioned the ſevere ſtorm we had here on the 2d inſtant, ſince which we have the following account of it from the Bar, viz. Fourteen ſail of veſſels were lying at Occacock Bar when the gale came on, which was ſo violent that 9 ſail of them were forced on ſhore, and 4 ſail more were drove over the Bar, two of which were ſeen to ſink, and the people all periſh; though we ſince hear that the Captain and a boy of one of them were taken up at ſea on a raft. We only know the name of one of the veſſels that were loſt, Capt. Clarke, in a ſloop from Edenton; it is ſaid the others belonged to Egg Harbour. Among thoſe on ſhore were Capt. Mills, of Philadelphia, and Capt. Pendleton, of the brig Two Couſins, of this place, the former of which is got off and arrived here to refit.

From Core Sound we hear, that Core Banks in many places are for the moſt part waſhed away for many miles together, and the proprietors conſiderable ſufferers in the loſs of cattle, horſes, ſheep, and hogs. That joining Bakers Hammock, by Harbour Iſland, there is a narrow but deep inlet; and oppoſite Cedar Iſland a conſiderable broad one, with many ſmall ones between, ſome of them deep. That oppoſite to Hunting Quarter, where old Drum inlet uſed to be, an intire breach of near two miles is made through the banks. Againſt Nelſon's bay, is another large inlet; and that the whole banks from Shackleford's point to Portſmouth, about 50 or 60 miles, where a carriage might have been driven with eaſe, is now cut through by near 50 inlets, ſome of them very deep; this, in all probability, will have ſome effect on the tide of this river, where before, by reaſon of the ſmall quantity of water that could enter Occacock bar, during the tide of flood, the tides were imperceptible, the water being expanded in the great ſound within the bar; but by the addition of waters that muſt now enter theſe new inlets during the flood tides, a ſenſible difference in the tides may poſſibly be ſeen.

Capt. Buſbee, in the ſloop Thomas, juſt arrived here from St. Martins, informs us, that off the capes of Virginia, in about 13 fathom water, he came through a drift of candles, apples, and other things, for near two miles, which muſt have been part of the cargoes of ſome northern veſſels; and that to the northward of cape Hatteras, he ſaw four ſail of veſſels on ſhore.

And, at the ſame time and place, will be ſold, all the LANDS belonging to the Nottoway Indians on the north ſide of Nottoway, conſiſting of two parcels, containing about 30 acres each.

N. B. The former advertiſement, for the above purpoſe, not getting to the preſs time enough to be inſerted according to the above act of Aſſembly, will, we hope, be a ſufficient apology for not leaſing the lands according to the time therein appointed.

FALMOUTH, October 13, 1772.

ALL perſons indebted to Meſſ. William Cuninghame, and company, of Glaſgow, for tranſactions with the deceaſed Mr. John Neilſon, at Dumfries, are deſired to pay the ſame to Mr. Francis Hay. To be SOLD, by the proprietors, at public vendue, on the firſt day of April, 1773, together, or in parts, as may beſt ſuit the purchaſers, for caſh, or ſhort credit,

THE OXFORD FORGE, or BLOOMERY, in Bedford county, with all the lands thereunto belonging, being 6000 acres, well timbered, advantageouſly ſituated for coaling, the ſtream is good, there are ſeveral banks of ore, ſufficient for any number of iron works the owner or owners may think proper to erect. The quality of the iron that has already been made in the bloomery, or blooming way, is not inferior to any on the continent. There are two ſeats for furnaces, the fartheſt not exceeding a quarter of a mile from the ore banks; and we can venture to aſſure any perſon or perſons, that may incline to purchaſe, that a furnace may be built at either of the ſaid places as cheap, and carried on at as ſmall expence, as at any place in America. Pig or bar iron may be exported at a ſmall expence, as the forge lies within one mile of James river, which affords an eaſy carriage within ſix or ſeven miles of navigation. The country in which the ſaid works are ſituated is very extenſive, and as there are no iron works to intercept their market, the demand for iron will be very great. A conſiderable part of the ſaid lands is very capable of farming, or planting. There is alſo a large quantity of meadow ground. The terms of ſale may be known by applying either to Robert Harper, of Berkeley county, Thomas James, late of Carliſle ironworks, in Cumberland county, Pennſylvania, or to Benjamin Elledge, on the premiſes, who will ſhew the lands, &c. Indiſputable titles will be made the purchaſers.

ROBERT HARPER,
THOMAS JAMES.

N. B. There is an exceeding good ſawmill within a hundred yards of the forge, with ſundry conveniencies for mills of any other kind, which the purchaſer may think proper to erect.

ALL thoſe that are indebted to the eſtate of Joſiah Chowning, deceaſed, either on bond or account, are deſired to make payment by the 30th inſtant (October) to Mr John Holt, of Williamſburg, or to us; and all thoſe who have any demands againſt the ſaid eſtate are deſired to make them known, as the eſtate may be ſettled as ſoon as poſſible.
